

Neil Williamson

Neil Williamson serves as President and Executive Director of The Free Enterprise Forum, a privately funded public policy organization tank in Charlottesville, Virginia. The Free Enterprise Forum is dedicated to fostering communication on a variety of growth, land, and resource management and economic development issues.

As managing editor of The Free Enterprise Forum blog and Forum Watch, the Free Enterprise Forum's monthly e-mail publication, Williamson regularly challenges local governments, businesses and citizens to expand their vision and consider the unintended consequences of their actions.

Often quoted as a voice in favor of economic freedom, Williamson has been a guest lecturer at The University of Virginia and serves as adjunct faculty to Piedmont Virginia Community College. He is a regular voice on several local radio programs commenting on local growth and development issues. Williamson's work has been featured in The Blue Ridge Home Builder, Daily Progress, Chamber Comments, The Real Estate Weekly, The Old Town Crier, The Virginia Wine Gazette and several other publications.

Williamson has a degree in Communications from Radford University and has completed the additional study at the University of California at Davis.
